Manu Bhaskaran has spent 20 years analyzing political and economic trends in Asia, first working for the Singapore government in the area of regional security and then for 12 years as Chief Economist and Chief Strategist for Asia of SG Investment Bank, the international investment banking arm of Societe Generale. In the latter post, Mr Bhaskaran led and managed analysis of political and economic variables in the region affecting business conditions and financial markets in developing Asian countries. He was responsible for economic forecasting as well as formulating equity investment strategies for the bank's clients. He has thus developed an intimate understanding of major companies, sectors and economies of the region. His work has also given him a unique insight into the dynamics underlying equity markets in Asia as well as a keen sense of the drivers of private portfolio and direct investment flows into the region. His group's clients included, in addition to Societe Generale's departments, a large number of major private equity and portfolio fund managers as well as multi-national companies from the US, Europe and Asia itself.

Mr Bhaskaran was also instrumental in developing the firm's brokerage businesses in Southeast Asia and in the South Asian sub-continent in the early and mid-1990s, in his role as a member of the Executive Committee of the firm. He was also responsible for the entire research function of the investment bank.

Mr Bhaskaran is a well-regarded commentator on Asian financial and economic affairs, having penned columns for the Far Eastern Economic Review and continues to have regular columns in business weeklies such as the Nikkei in Japan. He is a frequent speaker on Asian issues at major conferences such as the World Economic Forum. In the course of his work, Mr Bhaskaran has also developed excellent personal contacts with policy makers as well as business leaders in Asia. Although Mr Bhaskaran left service with the Singapore government in 1989, he has continued to participate in several governmental initiatives. He is also on the board of a listed Singapore government-owned company and is a Council Member of the Singapore Institute of International Affairs which advises the Singapore Foreign Ministry. He has also served as a Visiting Fellow at the Institute of Policy Studies, a Singapore think tank.

Mr Bhaskaran has a Masters degree in Public Administration from the John F Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University and a Bachelors degree in economics from Cambridge University. In addition to these, he has also qualified as a Chartered Financial Analyst.

Dr. Roberto F. de Ocampo is one of the most highly respected, internationally recognized and multi-awarded Filipinos today, particularly as an authority in the field of global finance and economic development. He was Secretary of Finance (1994-1998) during the presidency of Fidel V. Ramos, and was widely recognized as the principal architect of the resurgence of the Philippine economy whose achievement was hailed by the international finance community. In 1995, he was named "Finance Minister of the Year" by Euromoney magazine -- the first Filipino and first ASEAN finance minister to be so recognized. In 1996 and 1997, he was named "Asian Finance Minister of the Year" by the Euromoney and Asiamoney magazines, respectively. As Secretary of Finance, he was concurrently a member of the Board of Governors of the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank and an Alternate Governor of the International Monetary Fund. He also served as Chairman of the APEC Finance Ministers in 1997 and led the formulation of the Manila Framework. Prior to these posts, he also served as Chairman and CEO of the Development Bank of the Philippines and led its rehabilitation such that it was recognized by the prestigious international Banker Magazine during his tenure as one of the "world's soundest banks."

He is the immediate past president of the Asian Institute of Management having retired from that position in May 2006. He was subsequently elected and presently is a member of the AIM Board of Trustees. He is also presently Chairman of the Board of Advisers of the RFO Center for Public Finance & Regional Economic Cooperation, which had been designated by ADB as one of its Regional Knowledge Hubs.

Dr. de Ocampo was conferred the Legion of Honor, the highest honor conferred on Filipino civilians by the Republic of the Philippines in 1998 for his outstanding contributions to the country. In September 2001, he was named to the Ordre National de la Legion d' Honneur by the Republic of France with the rank of Chevalier. Vicente Fox was born in Mexico City, July 2, 1942. He is the second of nine children born to farmer José Luis Fox, now deceased, and Mercedes Quesada. As a child, together with his family he moved to the San Cristóbal ranch in the municipality of San Francisco del Rincón, in the state of Guanajuato. "I know the importance of opportunity – he says firmly–. I grew up on the land with the children of peasants and the only thing that sets me apart from my childhood friends are the opportunities I had and they did not".

He studied Business Administration at the Mexico City campus of the Ibero-American University. He went on to study for a Diploma in Upper Management, taught by professors from Harvard University Business School. In 1964 he joined Coca-Cola de México as a route supervisor. Thanks to his efforts, he was promoted to President for Mexico and Latin America, the youngest person in the company to occupy such a position. A loving father, he has shared the joy of home and work with his four adopted children: Ana Cristina, Vicente, Paulina and Rodrigo. He was the Founding President of the Board of Patrons of the Amigo Daniel Orphanage, an institution where many children are cared for and loved; President of the Loyola Board of Patrons, that promotes the Ibero-American University in León, and the Lux Institute.

He has served as a Board Member of the United States-Mexico Chamber of Commerce and as a Director of the Grupo Fox, whose companies – involved in the farming and agribusiness industries and the manufacture of footwear and cowboy boots for export – provide many employment opportunities. He joined the National Action Party (PAN) in the 1980s, encouraged by the late Manuel J. Clouthier. In 1988, he was elected Federal Deputy for the Third District of León, Guanajuato. While in Congress he paid special attention to agricultural matters. In 1991 he ran in the election for governor of the state of Guanajuato. In 1995, he stood again, this time in the extraordinary elections for governor, and won by a significant majority.

During his administration, Vicente Fox always gave clear account both of the state's finances and his personal assets. He made Guanajuato the fifth largest economy in Mexico and in light of the excellent results of his government, was chosen by the Alliance for Change (PAN-PVEM) as its candidate to the presidency of Mexico in the elections to be held in the year 2000. He wrote an autobiographical book called Vicente Fox a Los Pinos (his path to the presidential residence) summarizing his political beliefs and immense passion for Mexico. July 2, 2000, Vicente Fox won the elections and that same day promised to "...put together a plural, honest, and capable government. A government that includes this country's best citizens". Later that year, during his December 1 inaugural address, the President of all Mexicans, Vicente Fox Quesada, undertook to continue to build a generous country: "Today, all of us men and women are responsible for carrying out the mandate of those exemplary elections", he said unflinching. "A mandate for change, to bring in a democratic exercise of power that is within our grasp, where all of us will live better lives". A year after his victory in the presidential elections, July 2, 2001 the official residence of Los Pinos was the setting for an historic event: the civil marriage of Vicente Fox Quesada, president of the United Mexican States, to Mrs. Marta Sahagún, who in this way celebrated three very important events: the President's 59th birthday, the first anniversary of democratic change in Mexico, and their wedding.

G.R. Gopinath

Chairman and Managing Director, Deccan Cargo and Logistics
India

A former army officer and an award winning Seri culturist, Capt G.R Gopinath, made his foray in the aviation sector way back in 1995; at a time when domestic aviation was largely monopolized and strict government regulations were the norm. He identified the potential which the helicopter charter business had in India. With his entrepreneurial skills coupled with the technical skills of his ex-army friends, he launched 'Deccan Aviation' – a dedicated, customer focused heli-charter Company. Today, The Company is now India's largest and most reputed private air charter company including Sri Lanka. At the cusp of the new millennium; the idea of a low cost airline came to Capt. Gopi one day while flying from Bangalore to Goa. With rising incomes and increased spending power of Indians, affordable and reliable air travel too has the potential to acquire a mass consumption base.

Capt. Gopinath however was not interested in building another Delhi – Mumbai airline; instead he wanted to harness the potential of a billion consumers including those who live in towns like Kolhapur, Gwalior or Belgaum. The result was Air Deccan, India's first low cost, no frill airline, which was launched on the strength of a simple dream. A dream inspired by just one statement. "I want every Indian to fly at least once in his/ her lifetime."

Beginning with a modest four flights a day, AIR DECCAN in 2007 flew more than 350 flights daily connecting 65 destinations including hitherto unconnected sectors, across the country. Air Deccan has flown over 11.5 million people since inception. The airline had emerged as the largest people's carrier in a span of 4 years, overtaking the national carrier operating for 55 years. In 2008 he handed over the running of the Airline to Dr. Vijay Mallya, the airline has now been merged with Kingfisher and operates under the brand name – Kingfisher Red.

Today Captain Gopinath is focusing on Deccan Charters and has forayed into the Cargo and Express Logistics business. Captain Gopinath aims to be India's leading express transportation and logistics company with a focus on delivering superior customer experience. He wants to ensure that Express logistics is available deep in the smaller cities of India and is not the domain of the Metros alone.

Deccan Express Logistics will be the first Indian company to create a hub and spoke distribution model in the express industry in India connecting not only the metro cities but also the Tier-I & Tier-II cities to India's trade network. Once operational Deccan Express Logistics' air & surface network will offer unmatched next day connectivity to more than 85% of the Indian GDP and will offer higher capacity and twice the reach than any other express transportation & logistics company in the country.

Capt. Gorur R lyengar Gopinath was born in a remote village of Gorur in Karnataka. He first studied at the local village school thereafter at the Sainik School in Bijapur. He went on to graduate from India's most respected military establishments The National Defense Academy at Pune and the Indian Military Academy in Dehradun. Soon after completion of training, his first assignment was the 1971 Bangladesh War. Ever restless, he left the Army after 8 years of service to seek newer vistas.

Strong willed as he is, he took to farming and in a few years he went on to become a successful Seri culturist in Karnataka which won him the "Rolex International Award" for Enterprise in 1996, for his seeking to break new ground with the project 'Ecological Silk Farming to Improve Living Standards'. The same year he was listed by Outlook magazine as one of the 50 Indians who would rise from obscurity to fame in the coming decade. In May 2006 he was knighted with "Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur" the highest civilian award conferred by the French Government. He has received many awards for Air Deccan.

Born on June 20, 1949, Smt. S. Gopinath holds a Master's degree in Commerce and is a Certificated Associate of the Indian Institute of Bankers. Joining the Reserve Bank of India as a direct recruit officer on probation in April 1972, Smt. Gopinath was the senior most Executive Director in the Reserve Bank of India (appointed in June 2003) prior to her elevation as the Deputy Governor. Smt. Gopinath has handled some of the critical portfolios in the Reserve Bank, such as, financial markets, including regulation and management of government debt and exchange rate, management of foreign exchange reserves, and banking regulation and supervision.

During her two-year deputation to the International Monetary Fund, between 2001 and 2003, Smt. Gopinath has dealt with foreign exchange reserves management, safeguard assessment and foreign exchange markets. She has been part of IMF missions of Financial Sector Assessment Programmes to Hungary, Poland, Nigeria and Tanzania. Smt. Gopinath has been a part of the World Trade Organisation's deliberations relating to financial services. She has also been a delegate on the Asian Clearing Union and Bank for International Settlements.

Apart from heading the Financial Markets Committee of the Reserve Bank, Smt. Gopinath is the Chairperson of the Standing Advisory Committee on gold and precious metals and was the Convenor and member of the Working Group on Financial Conglomerates. Smt. Gopinath has also assisted the Second Narasimhan Committee on Banking Sector Reforms. She has been on the boards of Union Bank of India (1998-2001) and Bank of Maharashtra (1994-1996).

Shekhar Gupta is the Editor-in-Chief of The Indian Express, a newspaper at the forefront of investigative and public-affairs journalism. He leads the nation's largest network of award-winning journalists, whose work has effected change in several areas, including government policy and legislation.

Shekhar, known as a reporter's editor, has some of the significant newsbreaks in contemporary Indian journalism to his credit. At 26, as a reporter with The Indian Express, he exposed the horrific Nellie massacre in Assam that marked a watershed in the North-East's ethnic conflict. As a reporter, and then an editor, with India Today, India's largest newsmagazine, he uncovered LTTE training camps in India, nailed the lie of official intelligence agencies in a spy scandal that falsely implicated scientists of the Indian Space Research Organisation. And seven years before 9/11, travelled across Afghanistan, Pakistan, Germany, the US and the UK, to report extensively on the threat from Islamic fundamentalism, including its links with Osama bin Laden.

His weekly column called National Interest, now in its ninth year, has become a touchstone for new ideas in politics, governance, society, business and sports. He also hosts an interview-based programme Walk the Talk on NDTV 24x7, India's most watched and respected English news channel.

A regular guest speaker at the World Economic Forum in Davos and its India summits, Shekhar has authored Assam: A Valley Divided and India Redefines Its Role, published by the Oxford University Press by the International Institute of Strategic Studies, London. His newspaper won the Vienna-based International Press Institute's first India Award for Outstanding Journalism in the Public Interest.

The Indian Express, the English daily from The Indian Express Group, was the unifying voice behind India's struggle for independence. It still is.

The Indian Express began its journey in 1932. Since then, the Group has grown from strength to strength. From a single edition to 35 national editions, 14 publication centers and seven language dailies that reach over 19 million people across the country.

For the millions of readers, the name "Indian Express" evokes a feeling of trust. Published from 21 centers across the country, the newspaper has been identified with credible and fiercely independent journalism in India. One of the most influential newspapers of the Indian subcontinent, The Indian Express has been the watchdog for the Indian people, treading the terrains of investigative and pro-active journalism.

The paper, known for its credible and fair reporting against all odds, has had a very fine line of editors -- from S Mulgaokar, Pothan Joseph and Frank Moraes to Kuldip Nayar, S Nihal Singh, B G Verghese and Arun Shourie.

Professor of International Management, Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

United States

Yasheng Huang is professor of political economy and international management at Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His previous appointments include faculty positions at the University of Michigan and at Harvard University and consultant at the World Bank. In addition to academic journal articles, Professor Huang has published Inflation and Investment Controls in China (1996), FDI in China (1998), Selling China (2003), Financial Reform in China (2005, co-edited with Tony Saich and Edward Steinfeld), and Capitalism with Chinese Characteristics (2008). Capitalism with Chinese Characteristics is a detailed narrative account of history of economic reforms in China and is based on archival and quantitative evidence spanning three decades of reforms. This book shows that private entrepreneurship, facilitated by financial liberalization and microeconomic flexibility very early on in the reform era, played a central role in China's economic miracle. There is no evidence that China's economic takeoff was state-led. The book predicted and discusses in detail the current economic challenges facing China. The book was selected by the Economist magazine as one of the best books published in 2008.

His research has been profiled in many publications, including the Wall Street Journal, The Economist, Businessworld, Le Monde, Economic Times, Daily Telegraph, Bloomberg, Businessweek, Guardian, The Australian, Canberra Times, The Standard, Financial Times, Times magazine, The Globalist as well as in numerous Chinese publications and publications in Germany, France, Sweden, Romania, Brazil, and Russia. He has published opinion articles in Financial Times, New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Businessweek, McKinsey Quarterly, Forbes, Far Eastern Economic Review, Emerging Markets, and Foreign Policy.

He is currently working on a book manuscript on consumption and urbanization in China. In addition, using the newly-available household survey data, he is writing papers on rural finance and wealth creation and urbanization in China. In collaboration with other scholars, Professor Huang is undertaking joint research projects production of scientific knowledge, human capital in China and on ethnic and labor-intensive FDI.

At MIT Sloan School, Professor Huang founded and runs China Lab and India Lab, which aim to help indigenous entrepreneurs in China and India improve their management. He has held or received prestigious fellowships such as National Fellowship at Stanford University and Social Science Research Council-MacArthur Fellowship. He is a member of MIT Entrepreneurship Center, a fellow at Center for Chinese Economic Research and Center for China in the World Economy at Tsinghua University, a fellow at William Davidson Institute at Michigan Business School, a World Economic Forum Fellow, and a non-resident fellow for the OECD's global development outlook project.

Professor Said Irandoust, a Swedish national, was born in 1960 in Tabriz in the province of Azerbaijan in north-west Iran. He moved to Sweden in 1979 as an exchange student.

Professor Said Irandoust gained a M. Sc. in Eng. degree in chemical engineering at Chalmers, Sweden in 1984 and a PhD in 1989 with a thesis on monolith reactors. In 1990, he secured a position as assistant professor at Chalmers. In 1994, he was appointed associate professor and took up a position at the Department of Chemical Reaction Engineering. In 1998, he was appointed to the post of professor at the School of Chemical Engineering at Chalmers.

Professor Irandoust's area of research covers catalytic gas-liquid processes with a focus on reaction kinetics, mass transport, flow calculations, reactor modeling and reactor design.

His interest in teaching and students' learning has over the years led to a number of learning and teaching projects, including a multimedia project with financing from the Undergraduate Council of Sweden. He has also been associated over a long period with the CPU, the Centre for Educational Development, at Chalmers.

As the vice-president at Chalmers, he initiated and supervised a number of development projects within higher education (learning & teaching), further education for professionals, and internationalization. He also developed the strategy and the plans for a major, 5 year long project concerning the development of Chalmers higher education.

During 2000-2001, Professor Said Irandoust was a member of the Board for STINT, the Swedish foundation for international cooperation in research and higher education.

Professor Irandoust has actively participated in a number of boards and committees within culture and higher education / research.

In January 2001, Professor Irandoust was appointed as the president of "Högskolan i Borås" in Sweden, a position he held for about 4.5 years. Development of strong research environments, internationalization, partnership with stakeholders and development of a new university concept "The first Swedish University of Professions" were among the key projects during his presidency at Borås, Sweden.

Dr. Bimal Jalan is one of India's well known economists. He was Governor of the Reserve Bank of India from 1997 to 2003. During this period, the Reserve Bank successfully managed the impact of the East Asian crisis and its aftermath; substantially strengthened India's balance of payments position; maintained a low inflation environment and promoted wide-ranging reforms in the financial sector.

In August 2003, he was nominated to the Rajya Sabha, the Upper House of India's Parliament, by the President for distinguished service to the country.

Before taking over as Governor of the Reserve Bank, Bimal Jalan held several high level positions in India and abroad. In India, he has served as Chief Economic Adviser to the Government, Banking Secretary, Finance Secretary, Member-Secretary of the Planning Commission, and Chairman of the Economic Advisory Council to the Prime Minister. He represented India as Executive Director on Boards of International Monetary Fund and the World Bank in Washington D.C. during 1988-89 and 1993-96 respectively. Earlier, he was Director (Economic Affairs) of Commonwealth Secretariat in London.

Bimal Jalan was educated at Presidency College, Calcutta and Cambridge and Oxford. He has been Chairman/President of a number of distinguished academic institutions, including the Indian Statistical Institute, Kolkata, Indira Gandhi Institute of Development Research, Mumbai, National Council of Applied Economic Research, New Delhi and Institute of Economic Growth, New Delhi.

He has written extensively on the Indian economy. Books by Bimal Jalan on the economy include India's Economic Crisis: The Way Ahead (Oxford University Press, 1991), The Indian Economy: Problems and Prospects (Penguin, 1993; Revised Edition 2004), India's Economic Policy: Preparing for the 21st Century (Viking/Penguin, 1997), and India's Economy in the New Millennium - Selected Essays (UBS Publishers, 2002). His earlier publications include Problems and Policies in Small Economies (Croom Helm, London, 1982) and Essays in Development Policy (Macmillan, 1975).

His latest book on India, which has recently been published by Penguin-Viking is on The Future of India: Politics, Economics and Governance. In addition to economics and governance, this book is an attempt to examine the current state of political developments and their effect in determining India's economic future and public welfare.

He was appointed Chief Executive Officer of Ashanti Goldfields Company Limited in 1986 and oversaw its growth from a one-mine operation into a multinational. In 2006, Ashanti, which had listings in London and Ghana, became the first operating African company to be listed on the New York Stock Exchange. He became President of AngloGold Ashanti Ltd (world's second largest gold producer) in May 2004 when Ashanti was acquired by AngloGold Limited.

He was educated at Adisadel College in Ghana, Camborne School of Mines in Cornwall and The Imperial College of Science & Technology, London.

Sir Sam Jonah has been decorated with many awards and honours (including an honorary Doctor of Science degree) awarded jointly in 1994 by the Camborne School of Mines and the University of Exeter (UK) and in 2003 Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and Head of the Commonwealth, conferred on him an Honorary Knighthood as Knight Commander of the Civil Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (KBE). The award was in recognition of his exceptional achievements as a businessman, a leading business executive from the Commonwealth and an international public figure.

In October 2004 the Mining Journal conferred on him the Industry's Life Time Achievement Award and in December 2004, CNN/Time Magazine ranked him as one of 25 business influentials - setting the global standards for management, ethics, marketing and innovation.

In December 2005 Ashesi University College through its affiliate University in Ghana, University of Cape Coast, proudly awarded Sir Sam the Honorary Doctor of Humanities degree for his excellent and illustrious career as a Mining Engineer, Chief Executive, Director, Management Consultant, Diplomat, Educationist and Administrator. In 2006 he was awarded Ghana's highest national award, the Companion of the Order of the Star as well as being appointed to the Board of Ashesi University in Ghana.

Sir Sam Jonah holds numerous offices and titles including : Chancellor of the University of Cape Coast, Ghana; Member of The International Investment Advisory Councils of African Presidents - Ghana, South Africa and Nigeria; member The United Nations Secretary General's Global Compact Advisory Council; The African Regional Advisory Board of the London Business School, having previously served as a member of the Governing Body of the School of Oriental and African Studies and a Trustee of the Camborne School of Mines; visiting Professor of Business at The University of Witwatersrand Business School of Johannesburg; Trustee of the Nelson Mandela Legacy Trust (UK). In 2003, he was co-chairman of the World Economic Forum held in Durban, South Africa. He was formerly on the Advisory Council of the President of the African Development Bank and was also a member of the Advisory Council of the International Finance Corporation (IFC).

Sir Sam Jonah currently serves on various boards of public and private companies including The Standard Bank Group, Moto Mining (Listed on the Canadian Stock Exchange). His most recent appointment is on the Vodafone UK Board of Directors.

Mr. Kaji is the Chairman of the Centennial Group, a strategic advisory firm created by internationally recognized figures from the public and private sectors. The firm provides high-level policy and strategic advice to top business executives and senior public officials on how to derive maximum benefits while minimizing risks from opportunities in today's global economy.

Mr. Kaji currently serves on the Board of Directors of listed and privately held companies including: The Cabot Corp., Boston MA; The Infrastructure Development Finance Co. Ltd., India; HCL Perot Systems, Inc., Netherlands; Synergy Power Co. Ltd., Hong Kong; and Washington Asset Management, Inc., Washington, D.C. In addition, he has provided services to a number of private institutions such as J.P. Morgan since leaving the World Bank. In a career spanning almost 30 years in economic and development policy formulation and implementation with the World Bank, Gautam S. Kaji played a key role in helping the institution meet the development needs of its more than 180 member nations. In the process, he earned a worldwide reputation as a leading expert on global economic and financial issues.

When he retired from the World Bank in November 1997, Mr. Kaji was Managing Director for Operations, with specific responsibility for the institution's programs in Asia and Africa. He also chaired the Operations Committee, which reviews all projects put forward for Bank support and served as co-chair of the Private Sector Development Group, which encompasses the work of the Bank's private-sector affiliates, IFC and MIGA, as well as the IBRD itself. In addition, he was a member of the Bank's Executive Committee, the core senior management team guiding the strategic direction of the institution. Earlier, Mr. Kaji served in various operational positions with the Bank – including in Africa, Europe and the Middle East, and as Director for Human Resources.

Prior to his appointment as Managing Director in 1994, he was the Bank's Vice President for operations in East Asia and the Pacific – a region with which he was closely involved for well over a decade. This involvement has allowed him to develop a keen insight into the social, institutional and political considerations that influence practical policy formulation and implementation throughout Asia. He continues to maintain close personal contact with the senior policy makers and business leaders within and outside the region. Before joining the World Bank, Mr. Kaji worked for a number of years in the commercial banking sector in India, Hong Kong, the United Kingdom, and the United States. He has an MBA from the Wharton School of Finance.

Carlos Mesa

Former President of the Republic of Bolivia
Bolivia

In 2001, he became member of the Citizens' Council for the Reform of the Constitution that presented a text that was used as the draft for the Constitutional Reform of 2004. In 2002, entered politics for the first time, as independent candidate to the Vice Presidency of Gonzalo Sanchez de Lozada's MNR (Movimiento Nacionalista Revolucionario) ticket. After their electoral victory he was sworn in as Vice President. There he created the Office for fighting against corruption. After the rift with the President, due to the violence applied during the Crisis of October, that forced the resignation of the President, he was sworn in as President of the Republic on the 17th of October of 2003. His government pressed for carrying out of a Constitutional Assembly that would give the population the opportunity to build a new social pact. To that effect a Reform to the Constitution (2004) was promulgated that included a Referendum, the Constitutional Assembly, citizens groups and indigenous peoples as democratic participation instances additional to the political parties. His administration won Bolivia's first Referendum with universal vote for a new hydrocarbons policy (2004). In April of 2004, proposed the jump from a centralist State to a State made up of autonomies. On April, 2005, he called for the first Bolivia's history election of regional governors, the same that was carried out in December of that year. He pressed forward at international forums and bilaterally with a firm policy in Bolivia's relations with Chile demanding sovereign access to the Pacific Ocean and proposing a rapprochement policy with Peru for the exports of Bolivian natural gas to the Pacific. He signed a contract increasing the sales of natural gas to Argentina. Inherited a fiscal deficit of 8.1% of the GNP. That was defeated with a strict austerity policy in public expenditures: Reduction of 60% of confidential expenses, price increases for gasoline and diesel and freezing of bottled Petroleum Liquid Gas to protect the poorest people. That allowed a reduction of the deficit in somewhat more than 5% in 2004 and somewhat more than 2% in 2005. Exports duplicate levels for the first time in twenty four years, and the GDP growth surpassed 3.5% in 2004, after five years of acute recession, and surpassed 4% in 2005. He signed thousands of agrarian property certificates and 26 Original Community Land Titles. His administration had a principle position to defend human rights and respect for life, which had derived in a government that changed the logic of violent answers to social conflicts, applied by the previous four governments. That was the reason that led him to voluntarily resign to the post of President on 9th June of 2005, without the intervention of any popular request. Is author of thirteen books among which the following stand out: Presidentes de Bolivia: Entre Urnas y Fusiles (Presidents of Bolivia: Between Ballot Boxes and Rifles) (1983), De Cerca, Una Década de Conversaciones en Democracia. (Up Close, A Decade of Conversations in Democracy (1993), Historia de Bolivia (History of Bolivia) (jointly with José de Mesa and Teresa Gisbert, 1997) and Presidencia Sitiada (Sieged Presidency) (2008). He has developed jointly one hundred and two documentaries for television. Is Academician of the Academia Boliviana de la Historia and member of the Bolivian Historical Society. Studied political sciences and literature at the Universidad Complutense de Madrid and the Universidad Mayor de San Andrés in La Paz, from which he graduated in literature in 1978.

In 1979 he started his journalistic work at radio Cristal in La Paz. Was Vice-Editor of the evening paper Última Hora in La Paz. In 1983 he created, at Televisión Boliviana, the program De Cerca (Up Close). He directed the news departments of América TV and ATB and was director of Telesistema Boliviano. In 1990 he created the news producer Periodistas Asociados Televisión (PAT), which in a few years became a reference of the television information of Bolivia in the hemisphere. He directed the company and conducted the main news. In 1998 PAT was transformed into a Television Network. He directed the channel between 1998 and 2002 and between 2005 and 2007.

Born on 17th September, 1950 at Vadnagar, a small town in Mehsana district of North Gujarat, Modi grew up in a culture that instilled in him the values of generosity, benevolence and social service. During the Indo-Pak war in the mid sixties, even as a young boy, he volunteered to serve the soldiers in transit at railway stations. In 1967, he served the flood affected people of Gujarat.

He started with the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), a socio-cultural organization with a focus on social and cultural development of India and imbibed the spirit of selflessness, social responsibility, dedication and nationalism.

He entered mainstream politics in 1987 by joining the BJP. Just within a year, he was elevated to the level of General Secretary of the Gujarat unit. The party started gaining political mileage and formed a coalition government at the centre in April 1990. This partnership fell apart within a few months, but the BJP came to power with a two-thirds majority on its own in Gujarat in 1995. Since then, the BJP has been governing Gujarat.

Between 1988 and 1995, Modi was recognized as a master strategist who had successfully gained the necessary groundwork for making the Gujarat BJP the ruling party of the state.

In 1995, he was appointed the National Secretary of the party and given the charge of five major states in India – a rare distinction for a young leader. In 1998, he was promoted as the General Secretary (Organization), a post he held until October 2001, when he was chosen to be the Chief Minister of Gujarat, one of the most prosperous and progressive states of India.

.In October 2001, he was called upon by the party to lead the Government in Gujarat. He conceived the Panchamrit Yojana – a five-pronged strategy for an integrated development of the state. Under his leadership, Gujarat is witnessing massive transformation in several sectors including education, agriculture, healthcare and several others. He developed a clear vision of his own for the future of the state, launched policy-driven reform programmes, reoriented government's administrative structure and successfully put Gujarat on the road to prosperity. Little wonder that these skills coupled with his administrative acumen, clear vision and integrity of character translated into a landslide victory in the December 2002 general elections and the Modi government was voted back to power with a massive majority of 128 seats in a house of 182.

On December 22, 2002, when he was sworn-in as the chief minister of Gujarat for the second time, the ceremony had to be held in an open-air stadium because of the sheer number of people who wanted to watch and hear the leader they had so overwhelmingly elected.

It is under his able leadership that Gujarat has bagged several awards and accolades from all over the world – including UN Sasakawa Award for disaster reduction, Commonwealth Association for Public Administration and Management (CAPAM) award for innovations in governance, UNESCO award, CSI award for e-Governance etc. The very fact that Modi has been ranked as the number one Chief Minister by the public for three consecutive years speaks volumes for his achievements.

His masterstroke of putting Gujarat on the global map essentially is ongoing campaign called the Vibrant Gujarat that truly transforms Gujarat into one of the most preferred investment destinations.

Jayprakash Narayan

President,
Lok Satta Party
India

Dr. Jayprakash Narayan is a physician by training who went into the Indian Administrative Service in the aftermath of the Emergency and failure of the Janata Experiment. He was a topper in the IAS exam. During the 16 years of distinguished public service in various capacities, he acquired a formidable reputation in the State of Andhra Pradesh.

Some of his major accomplishments while in government

- As Joint Collector, he worked for the speedy rehabilitation of 8000 youth from displaced families of Visakhapatnam Steel Plant
- As Collector of Prakasam District, he was instrumental in the creation of a record 2,00,000 acres of irrigation, the largest such program with direct participation of people
- As Collector of East Godavari District, he spearheaded the reconstruction of drainage and irrigation network in Krishna and Godavari deltas.
- He served as Secretary to both Governor and Chief Minister of Andhra Pradesh.
- He worked on strengthening of the credit cooperatives and making them independent of government control.

His other accomplishments include several major policy initiatives, including

- empowerment of parents in schools
- speedy justice through rural courts
- economic reform and restructuring of AP
- development of the Infocity in Hyderabad
- the much-acclaimed law for self-reliant cooperatives (1995)
- empowerment of local governments and stakeholders

In spite of an impressive personal achievement, Dr Narayan's experience in government convinced him that faulty governance process was the biggest hurdle to India and Indians achieving greater success. And what India needs today is a fundamental change in the rules of the game and not a periodic change of players. In order to translate his vision into practical reality, he resigned from Service (IAS) in 1996, and worked with like-minded colleagues for the formation of Lok Satta. Lok Satta has emerged as India's leading civil society initiative for governance reforms. The movement is driving the electoral and governance reforms agenda of the country with several notable successes to its credit. Lok Satta has been in the forefront of several key initiatives: disclosure of candidate details; political funding reforms; decriminalization of politics; improvement of voter registration; strengthening anti-defection provisions; right to information law; local government empowerment; local courts; national judicial commission; independent crime investigation; citizen's charters; national health mission; and liberation of cooperatives from government's clutches. In 2006, he initiated the launch of Lok Satta Party as a movement for new political culture and is serving as its President.

Dr. Narayan has been felicitated with several laurels. These include:

- Honored with the "Rotary Manav Seva Award 2002" for his crusade against corruption
- Awarded the "Yudhvir Memorial Award 2002"
- Awarded the "Dr. Rustam D. Ranji Rotary Award" by Rotary Club of India, September.
- Awarded the "D. Ch. Tirupathi Raju Memorial Award 2004" in recognition of his relentless efforts to improve democratic governance, July.
- Honored with prestigious "Dr. Pinnamaneni Sita Devi Foundation Award", December.
- Honored with the "Bharat Asmita Jana Jagran Shreshtha"
- Felicitated by the Hyderabad Software Exporters Association.

Former World Bank Vice President, South Asia
United States

A Ugandan national, Praful Patel is one of the senior corporate leaders of the World Bank. He is currently the Regional Vice President of South Asia. Praful joined the World Bank in 1974 through the Young Professional Program, after completing his higher education from the University of Nairobi in Kenya and, later, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the USA.

In a career spanning 35 years, Praful has provided strategic leadership in managerial and corporate positions in various parts of the Bank taking forward the institution's mission of poverty alleviation in regions as varied as Africa, East Asia, Latin America and Northern Africa and the Middle East. In the process, Praful has covered different sectors including urban, infrastructure, private sector, financial sector and macroeconomic management. Praful's management skills and experience have also been called upon to support the Bank's institutional agenda. He has effectively led the organization's Appeals Committee, supported the development of country teams, and played a primary role representing the Bank in developing and implementing the Africa Capacity Building Program. He has also taken on senior management oversight of complex Bank-supported initiatives in countries confronting major macroeconomic shocks, post-conflict countries and countries involving international cross-boundary undertakings; and has piloted—in Southern Africa—the Bank's increasing shift to country dialogue based on knowledge management and support of local capacity.

Praful retired from the World Bank in 2008 and has taken over as President of Centennial Africa & Middle East.

Fidel V. Ramos, The 12th President of The Republic Of The Philippines, is remembered for his ability to lead and his willingness to be led -- not by astute advisors and political strategists, but by the people whom he served, and served well, for six years. Steadfastly and faithfully, he promoted the principles of people empowerment and global competitiveness during his term as President from 30 June 1992 to 30 June 1998. He will be remembered as the leader who quickly led the nation out of darkness, putting an end to the power crisis that crippled our homes and industries. He is remembered as a leader who always looked toward the future and whose optimism—captured in descriptive phrases like “Philippines 2000” and “Pole-vaulting”—propelled the economy.

He is remembered for his positive energy that seemed to burst from his cool and at times steely demeanor. He pursued, focused and converged programs to fight poverty in accordance with the will of the Filipino people expressed by 229 structural/reform laws enacted by Congress from 1992 to 1998. During the years 1993-1997, the Philippine economy recovered dramatically and a comprehensive Social Reform Agenda (SRA) was implemented that addressed long-standing problems regarding health, education and skills training, housing, environmental protection, children and the youth, the elderly and the handicapped, jobs and livelihood, agrarian reform and access to equal opportunity. Gross National Product averaged 5 percent annually. The inflow of foreign private funds surged from $1.6 billion per year, during the Marcos regime, and $4.8 billion, during the Aquino administration, to an average of $14.9 billion per year. The total inflow of foreign exchange into the country outpaced forex inflows of the combined periods of rule of both Marcos and Aquino. Average income of the Filipino family grew more during his administration than in the preceding two decades. He pushed for the deregulation of key industries and the liberalization of the economy. He encouraged the privatization of public entities, to include the modernization of public infrastructure through the expanded Build-Operate-Transfer (BOT) law. While communist insurgency dwindled to historic lows, he achieved a peace agreement with military rebels and the MNLF southern secessionists which won for him (together with Chairman Nur Misuari) and the Philippines the coveted 1997 UNESCO Peace Prize—the first for Asians.

His public service spanned a total period of 51 years. In retirement, he seems to be always on the go throughout the Philippines, mobilizing the citizenry and pushing Unity, Solidarity and Teamwork at every opportunity. Ever the international diplomat, he personally interacts with many leaders around the world.

Hossein Razavi

Senior Associate, Centennial Group; Former Director, Infrastructure and Energy, World Bank

United States

Hossein Razavi is the former Director of the Energy and Infrastructure Department of the World Bank. During his 23 year tenure at the World Bank he served a number of managerial and professional positions including the Chief of Oil and Gas Division, the Director of the Energy Department, and the Director of Private Sector Development. He has worked extensively in the countries of the Middle East and North Africa, Asia, and Eastern and Central Europe. He managed the operational work of the World Bank in the oil, gas and power sectors in various countries. He also led the development of the World Bank's various business strategies including subnational lending, guarantee products and the GEF facility.

Dr. Razavi is well known in the international financial community for his pioneering work on structuring financial vehicles suitable to the energy sector. His book on Energy Finance was published by the Pennwell Books, first in 1996, and a new edition in 2007. He advises the World Bank and the African Development Bank on their energy business strategies particularly in relation to the development and financing of clean energy projects. He trains government officials and oil and gas executives on the subjects of energy finance, private sector development, and infrastructure policy. His publications include several books and numerous papers on project finance, economic planning; and energy and environment.

He holds an MS in engineering and a PhD in economics. He serves on the editorial boards of the Energy Journal and Energy Economics.

A promoter of women's participation, shared social responsibility, and unity among government sectors and tiers, Mrs. Marta de Fox says that democratic transition in our country will only be possible when everybody unites their efforts around one higher objective: Mexico. Her working agenda revolves around the axes of the promotion of education, women and children's health, the fight against poverty, and support for vulnerable groups, by government institutions and civil society organizations connecting and joining efforts. She rejects the title of "First Lady" because she says Mexico has no Second Ladies.

The mother of three sons, Marta de Fox, was born in Zamora, Michoacán, on April 10, 1953. She has also published various articles in national newspapers. She gave classes in English at the Lasallista Benavente University, after studying the teaching the language during a stay in Dublin, Ireland.

As part of the process of democratic transition in Mexico, Marta Sahagún de Fox played an important role at the head of political communications first of governor, then candidate, and finally Mexican President, Vicente Fox Quesada. Marta was the first woman to serve as spokesperson for the federal government and implemented innovative processes in communication with society. In 1995 she was invited by the then governor of the state of Guanajuato, Vicente Fox, to serve as Coordinator of Social Communication. From the start to this federal administration and until June 30, 2001 she was the Spokeswoman and Coordinator General of Social Communication of the Mexican Presidency. On July 2, 2001 she married President Vicente Fox.

As a member of civil society Marta currently chairs the Vamos México Foundation, an organization which seeks to trigger a true social movement in favor of the most precarious groups, especially girls, boys, and women in extreme poverty, as well as the elderly, the disabled, and indigenous peoples. Since 2001 she has been Honorary President of the Mexican Red Cross. She is also Honorary President of the National Council for Childhood and Adolescence (Consejo Nacional para la Infancia y la Adolescencia - COIA) and the Association of Diplomatic Spouses (Asociación de Cónyuges Diplomáticos), a member of the Honorary Council of the International Centre for Missing and Exploited Children (ICMEC), and a Permanent Honorary Member of the Hispanic Women's Conference and of the Association of Friends of the Museum of Popular Art. Marta has actively participated in various international forums, meetings, and events, including the 6th Ibero-American Encounter of the Third Sector; the International Women's Forum (IWF), Mexico Chapter; and the inauguration of the 5th Microcredit Summit Campaign. She also participated at the 5th International Meeting of the Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities (HACU), at the American Leaders Forum, Forums of World Vision, and at the 54th Annual Conference of the Council on Foundations. Recently, together with other first ladies of the Americas and Europe, she took part in the Ibero-American Summit held in Bolivia. She has been honored with such decorations as the Royal Order of the Polar Star, Grand Cross, from the government of the Kingdom of Sweden; the Order of Isabella the Catholic, Grand Cross, from the government of the Kingdom of Spain; the Grand Cross of the Order of Merit, First Class, from the Federal Republic of Germany; and the Grand Cordon of the Order of the Precious Crown, by the Japanese government, among others. In May 2004 Marta de Fox was invited to participate at the 2005 Davos World Economic Forum. This is the first time a Mexican president's wife has been invited to this forum.

Since 1988, Mrs. de Fox has been an active member of the National Action Party (Partido Acción Nacional - PAN), when she has served as a National Councilor, State Councilor, and Secretary of Women's Political Promotion, in the state of Guanajuato.

Surendra Srivastava

Founder, Maharashtra Chapter of Lok Satta Aandolan; Founder and President, Lok Satta Party –Maharashtra Pradesh
India

Mr. Surendra Srivastava, founder, Maharashtra Chapter of Lok Satta Aandolan and founder president of Lok Satta Party, Maharashtra Pradesh believes that the solutions are already available to most of our predicaments – education, healthcare, skills and employment, agriculture, divisive issues like reservations, a security net for the unorganized sector workers, rapid migration to big cities, failure of rule of law, policing crisis, judicial delays, rural infrastructure, power sector crisis, local governments, freebies, regional disparities, legislative paralysis and the monumental corruption and mass poverty which are evident everywhere. While we need to keep on perfecting Lok Satta Aandolan’s agenda for good politics & governance, we must never allow the impossible best to become the enemy of the possible good. Political fragmentation of India is real, and the idea of India is now in retreat. The national electoral verdicts are merely aggregates of state verdicts. We must work collectively to rebuild a political India. This needs both public education and systemic change. Unless national parties can survive in all states with a moderate vote share by translating it into seats, India will be increasingly fragmented on parochial lines.

Through Lok Satta Aandolan, Mr. Surendra Srivastava, over the years, has been attempting to synthesize the cumulative experience of past successes and failures, and the best practices all over the world. A practical, effective, affordable, achievable set of measures has been proposed by Lok Satta Aandolan. This is an effort to balance competing interests and objectives and utilize resources optionally to help every Indian fulfill her potential.

He is deeply influenced by Dr. Jayaprakash Narayan (Founder & National Coordinator of Lok Satta Aandolan and Founder & National President of Lok Satta Party) be in his belief in village industry, empowerment of people, uplift of the poor or a Spartan way of life. Talking about them, Mr. Srivastava says, “Vibrant local democracy, internal democracy in political parties and vigorous citizen participation are crucial to translate our vision for India into a reality”.

Mr. Surendra Srivastava completed his schooling from Colaba Municipal School, Mumbai and graduated with a Bachelor of Commerce Degree (Hons) from Chinnai College, Mumbai University. Adding to his professional qualification, he completed his Law Degree from K. C. College of Mumbai. He is a son of an army soldier and a corporate executive by training, in public service by choice, and a democrat by conviction. He had remarkable professional journey from clerk to the president of The Great Eastern Shipping Company Ltd, a corporate giant. His interaction with civil administration of India had given him an insight of painful governance system in India. He firmly believes that India needs today is not merely periodic change of players, but a fundamental change in the rules of the game. To reform politics and governance of India, he devoted himself to LOK SATTA AANDOLAN.

Leadership, brilliance, craving for excellence and down-to-earth are words that come to mind when one comes face-to-face with Mr. Surendra Srivastava. The phrase ‘Workaholic’ sums up his success story. He is a visionary and has a mission to build better India for today’s generations.

Dr. Inder Sud has worked for nearly four decades in international development. His areas of expertise include formulation and implementation of development policies and programs, institution building, and program evaluation. He has had extensive experience in several sectors: urban development, infrastructure, energy, finance and private sector development. is an independent consultant in international development. He has worked in numerous countries all over the world, but most extensively in Asia and the Middle East. He is currently an independent consultant advising a number of multilateral and bilateral aid agencies, developing country policy makers, and non-profit organizations engaged in development. His current interests include post-conflict reconstruction, state building and governance.

Dr. Sud previously worked at the World Bank, where he held a number of managerial positions in country and sector operations, finance, and policy. He was involved in the Bank's pioneering work on the issues of urban poverty in the 1970s. Subsequently, he managed the Bank's work in urban development, infrastructure and energy in East Asia. He was actively engaged in assisting China in the early years of its reform program.

In 1989, Dr. Sud chaired a World Bank task force that set out its operational approach to support private sector development. He was subsequently appointed as the first Director of the department responsible for privatization and private sector development. While there, he pioneered the use of World Bank guarantee in support of public private partnership in infrastructure. In 1995, he was appointed Director for the Middle East, a position he held until his retirement in 2001.

Dr. Sud has also taught at the Elliott School of International Affairs at The George Washington University and the Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University, and is currently a visiting scholar at the Sigur Center of Asian Studies at George Washington University. He served on UN Secretary General Kofi Annan's Task Force on Millennium Development Goals (2002-5).

CM Vasudev joined the Indian Administrative Services in 1966. In the 37 years that followed he built an illustrious track record particularly rich with experience in the areas of economic policy with an emphasis on banking and finance. And he did this at the highest levels, both within India and internationally. Of the several credits to his name, a few deserve special mention:

During his long stint in the Ministry of Finance, as Secretary, Economic Affairs he spearheaded reforms in many sectors including dismantling the administered price mechanism for petroleum products and changing the administered interest rate mechanism in favour of a more market determined system thus causing interest rates to decline to realistic levels. As secretary, Expenditure he introduced a policy of reform linked devolution of resources to the states including those for fiscal reforms, which led to strengthening of state finances. As Secretary Banking, he ushered in wide ranging reforms in public sector banks including raising equity from the market thereby not only reducing their reliance on allocations from the Union budget but also making them more accountable and their capital structures more efficient. Entry norms for private sector and foreign banks were also liberalized.

He chaired the Public Investment Board, which was responsible for appraisal and approval of public investments in infrastructure. Most noteworthy among these were the National Highway Development Project (construction of the landmark Golden Quadrilateral Highway Network); upgradation of the Mumbai and Chennai ports; investments by National Hydro-Power Corporation and Power Grid Corporation.

As member secretary of the Narsimhan Committee II on Financial Sector Reforms he helped script the second phase of reforms for the banking sector. He also chaired a committee for reforms of the non-banking financial sector.

As Additional Secretary (Budget) he was part of the 'dream team' under Dr. Manmohan Singh that consolidated the watershed economic reforms programme undertaken in the early nineties.

As Joint Secretary of the Ministry of Commerce he was intimately involved in the WTO's Marrakesh Round of trade negotiations. During his tenure the South Asia Preferential Tariff Agreement (now known as SAFTA) was signed.

He was, at various points, on the Board of Directors of the Reserve Bank of India, State Bank of India, ICICI Bank (during which he oversaw the reverse merger of ICICI and ICICI Bank), IDBI Bank Ltd, and the Infrastructure Development Finance Company.

As a founder director of the Infrastructure Development and Finance Company - a non-government company with equity participation from GIC Singapore, IFC Washington, CDC, among other - he was instrumental in the designing policies for greater private sector participation in infrastructure.

Mr. Vasudev also worked in the World Bank and International Finance Corporation, Washington as Advisor for 5 years and as Executive Director for more than 3 years. He chaired the committee on Developing Effectiveness in the World Bank and played a leading role bringing infrastructure lending to the forefront of World Bank Operations.

Currently he is a member of the Boards of the Bombay Stock Exchange, HDFC Bank, ICRA Management and Consulting Services, and the Noida Power Company. He is also advising some multinational companies and infrastructure funds on their India operations and works as a consultant for the World Bank on specific issues. Occasionally, he also, writes for the Financial Express newspaper.

Mr. Vasudev holds a Masters Degree in Economics from University College of Swansea, UK and a Masters in Physics from Punjab University.
